Eternal Feather

Far away in the sky, beyond the window,
I saw a cloud I couldn't reach.

I heard a gentle sound that healed my breaking heart.

A shard of a dream drops into the palm of my hand.
To find the answer I lost, I run ahead.

Our chance meeting overcame time and our two hands intertwine.

I embrace these awakening memories to my heart.

I search for the back that I had forgotten to bring an end to the loneliness.

I believe, but I'm scared.
I heard your voice in my dream.

Fearing getting hurt, I made a fake smile.
If it's you and me, I can weave together the fragile courage.

If I can change
even the frozen pain into warmth.

The ring of the bell will echo to the endless future.

Flutter down in the sky so high,
even if you don't have wings.

The smile left behind on the road home searches for the voice it lost one day.

The darkness of my memories transcend time.
Even now, it hasn't ended.

Swooping down from the sky,
the white wings swayed.

Running with my outstretched hand,
I chased after your shadow.

If the falling white snow were to pile up,
it would cover up these sad colors.

The love sleeping deep within my heart...
Please remember it.

Soar high up in the sky and spread your wings.

Inside the gentle rays of the sun,
I saw your dreams.

Fluttering down from the high sky,
wear your white wings.

Our joined hands
won't let go of the future.
